MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ROYAL ARE THE FAMILY OF THE YEAR as chosen by the Belle Glade Woman's Club for their "Christian devotion"

as family of year

Royals are chosen

A life of Christian devotion has paid off for Sue and George Royal.

The patriarch of Glades department stores and his wife have been chosen as this year's Family of the Year by the Belle Glade Jr. Women's Club. In typical Royal fashion the two of them talked it over with God before accepting the honor and allowing this story to be written away from it.

"If there is one thing Christ stresses throughout the Bible," said Royal, "it is humility. We have never really liked to talk about what we have done. When you do that you take something away from it."

Yet, the story of these two Glades pioneers is a most remarkable one. They started with absolutely nothing 46 years ago and today are part of a chain that stretches from Indiantown and Okeechobee all the way over to Immokalee.

The happiest night of George and Sue Royal's life turned out to be the most disastrous. They were wed the night of Sept. 15, 1928 in Canoochee, Ga. Sue's home town.

Older residents of the Glades will remember the date as the night of the 1928 hurricane that killed over 2,000 people in the Glades and left much of Palm Beach County destroyed.

George Royal lost two general stores in that hurricane over at what was then called Kelsey City. It is now known as Lake Park.

It was in Kelsey City where George had met Sue just a year before. The town held a little reception for all the new teachers and invited some of the more eligible males in town.

"I thought, this is really a bounty from southern Georgia," said Royal. "And it went from there."

"We were both going with somebody else at the time," Sue explains. "But I knew he was a little unusual right then. I didn't want to lose him. It wasn't long before we were dating each other."

"I also had a new Buick then," said Royal. "That was a little bit of the attraction."

He smiled as he said it, though.

His stores wiped out, no money in the bank, Royal decided to take his young bride West. They settled in the Rio Grande area where Sue got a job teaching and George sold memberships in the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Times got even harder and the Royals moved to Atlanta.

George went to work for $12 a week at a Colonial store.

"Then I got to thinking about the fertile soil down here," George recalled. "A boy who used to work with me was working with American Express. We got in an old Model A and headed for the Glades."

"I got a job as a store keeper in Clewiston with U.S. Sugar," he said. "I got $125 a month and Sue helped me in the store. Larry (his oldest son) was on the way then. We saved the money we made while living in a small room behind the store. I sold some used cars on the side, as well. We bought a cow and sold enough milk to pay for our groceries."

It was in 1931 with a capital investment of $600 that the Royal chain started.

It was a small beginning to be sure. Both Royal and a man named Wells put up $300 apiece for a small store in Bean City.

Only Altman still wants new city hall complex

Active support for a new city hall was cut by one vote when the Belle Glade City Commission met last night.

"I don't want to spend a million dollars on a city hall either," Altman said. "I voted against it too. We all did but we should be thinking in terms of a package instead of just a new city hall."

City Commissioner Tom Altman was the only member of the commission arguing for continuing with plans for the city complex after the commission rejected a month ago to reject earlier plans.

Major Aubrey Farmer and Commissioners Ralph Kirk and William Greer went on record against doing anything in the near future but went along with Commissioner Bill Bailey's proposal to hold a workshop on it the first Monday in February 1975.

"We have sewer and water programs," he said, "but there's no connection between a new city hall and sewer and garbage."

"Ten years ago," Altman said, "this city commission said that next year, the top priority would be a new city complex and we're no further along now than we were then."

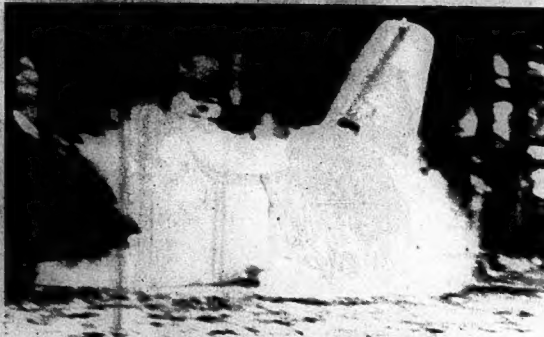

"The bid for the city hall is dead," Bailey observed. "We all voted against it but I hate to see it die completely though."

He suggested the commission postpone action on the complex until next year while going ahead with other problems.

Kirk and Greer agreed in saying they were against doing anything at all on the city hall until improvements have been made in the city's sewer and water systems.

Altman argued the city already has a program set up to make those improvements and the city hall is a budgeted item which doesn't cut into the funds.

THIS WAS ONLY ONE OF THE TWO BOATS WHICH CRACKED UP during last year's Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce Regatta.

75 boats coming

Final plans were being completed this week for the Ninth Annual Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce Regatta as an anticipated 75 boats race for $1,000 in prize money beginning at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

The regatta and the races involved is one of the largest crowd gatherings annually for the Belle Glade area but the races were cut short last year when high winds and rough water caused two accidents in the first two races.

Prize money for the races this year will be $60 for first prize, $25 for second place and $15 for third in 10 different classes.

The chamber is planning a menu of barbecued chicken, baked beans, cole slaw, corn on the cob and either tea or coffee for $3 a plate to handle rising appetites at the festivities.

A couple of concession stands will also be open to dispense soft drinks to the expected crowds.

The annual regatta is a joint effort by the chamber and the American Powerboat Association, headed by Ed Hauptner, who has worked out plans again this year in conjunction with the local chamber officials.

Jim Graham, a local real estate broker and auctioneer, will again act as the announcer at the event and Dr. J. Allen Baker will be in attendance.

Safety will be looked after by local law enforcement agencies as city police drivers stand by and pace and patrol boats will be provided by the Sheriff's Office.

Other patrol boats will be provided by Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 55, a newly formed flotilla founded last year in the Glades and commanded by Joe Clayton.

Lavern Bryant crowned

HOMECOMING QUEEN is Miss Lavern Bryant

Homecoming festivities got off with a bang Tuesday night at Glades Central High School when Miss Lavern Bryant was named Miss Glades Central for 1974.

Unlike previous years, the choice of the homecoming queen remained a secret until the last minute when the second runner-up, Miss Patricia Buono was named Miss Senior for 1974.

The third member of the court, Miss Valerie Vereen, was named Senior Attendant to Miss Glades Central as the second runner-up to Miss Bryant.

In previous years, the homecoming queen was elected by the student body the Tuesday before Homecoming and the results were posted immediately.

Lake no. 64 in nation

Lake Farm Equipment of Belle Glade-Pahokee is in the top 150 Allis-Chalmers dealers in the country.

Stan Hill, manager of the local company, confirmed that his organization was currently in 64th place, with only two months left to go in the competition.

The top 150 dealers are invited to six days and five nights of leisure living in New Mexico.

"December is when we win it," Hill said. "I'm looking for a big season in agriculture in the Glades this year. Food has to go up—and sugar—you don't have to ask me about the sugar."

Hill's company is a diversified one. It carries everything from 42 horsepower riding lawn mowers to 200 horse power giants. Lake Equipment also carries a full line of garden supplies along with its agricultural and industrial equipment.

"We service from Vero Beach all the way down into the keys and both coasts," said Hill. "We have 17 employees in all and service farmers and contractors throughout our district."

Lake Equipment was notified of its standing by a bulletin out of the Atlanta office.

THIS ALLIS-CHALMERS 6040 IS ONE OF THE REASONS LAKE EQUIPMENT IS THE 64th DEALER in the nation for the 3,600-dealer farm equipment manufacturer in selling the Allis-Chalmers line

Now we are

Positive statements have a way of coming back to haunt you at the worst possible moments.

Back in July, Canal Hazards Safety Committee Chairman Franklyn Jones said, among other worries, he was worried the City of Belle Glade, through its engineers, might hold up the four-laning of State Road 80.

"Belle Glade won't hold up SR80," Mayor Aubrey Farmer assured him at the time.

The matter came up when Jones found the city's engineers, Briley-Wild and Associates, would have to submit plans to the State Department of Transportation on relocating utility lines in the path of planned construction.

A meeting was held in early September between city and state officials and the city's engineers were given a deadline of Oct. 1 to submit the engineering plans for the relocation.

It was also stated in the meeting Belle Glade was holding up construction.

"Remember those newspaper stories 90 to 120 days ago," Belle Glade City Commissioner Bill Bailey said Monday, "that said Belle Glade was holding up SR80?"

"Well," he said, "they weren't true then but they are now."

With the city still undecided whether to relocate lines inside or outside the DOT right of way, because it doesn't have enough facts yet, or whether to do the work with the city forces, which it wants to do, or contract the work, the dead line has been overstepped already by a month and a half.

Maybe Frank Jones knows when to worry.

get aside to solve utility problems.

One of the problems, not directly related to improvements but directly involving water and sewer service, became a subject of hot discussion later in Monday night's meeting.

City Attorney John Baker said he needs plans from the city engineer, Briley-Wild and Associates, to continue with his legal coordination with the state Department of Transportation in relocating utility lines on SR 80.

Baker also questioned the engineer's giving priority to the section of SR 80 between Vinegar Bend and Avenue E.

The city attorney said he had been told by DOT officials in a meeting he attended the city is being required to submit plans for relocating all the utility lines from Vinegar Bend to Avenue E and from Hillsboro Canal to Airport Road at the same time.

Baker also emphasized the fact the city and Briley-Wild are running behind schedule, that Belle Glade was supposed to have submitted its engineering plans for relocation of the lines by Sept. 30.

"Maybe He'll Be Good Now That He's Legitimate!"

the Bulldog's Bark

by Ben Clarke

(Ed. Note: Glenn Laney, whose "Off the Record" column normally appears in this spot was unable to write a column this week. It is rumored he is still in a state of shock from Saturday's Florida-Georgia game in which his beloved Gators blew it 17-16.

Laney was last seen wandering through the cornfields on Torrey Island screaming at the top of his voice "wait till next year"—an oft familiar chant to our suffering Gator fanatics. In his place Ben Clarke, a graduate of the University of Georgia, has graciously consented to write a column.

Yes, Virginia, there really is a Santa Claus and although you may not recognize him even though he is clothed in the customary red and black (with a sprinkling of white), he is unmistakably with us. His visits are generally made prior to the historical date of December 25th, in fact, they usually occur somewhere between the middle of September and the first of December.

Perhaps his most anticipated visit is when he depends upon the City of Jacksonville for a little get together known as the "Florida" game, or if one happens to be one of those unfortunate "wait till next yearers", it is known as the "Georgia" game. However, as you already know, Santa in all his resplendent glory and infinite wisdom has once again visited us and his bag of tricks was certainly full of all sorts of little goodies. Right, Mr. Laney?

All of which brings us to the point of this mini-column. We wish first to apologize in advance to all you loyal, decent, and otherwise reasonable Gator fans who, when confronted with such adversity as losing to Georgia, simply adopt a philosophical attitude and say, "next year will be the year of the Gator." We do not, however, wish to infer, imply, impute, or otherwise transfer in any manner whatsoever such apology to Glenn Laney or anyone else of his ilk who has so consistently maligned the Bulldogs without due cause and reason other than his (or their) own insecurities surfaced knowing that November 9th, last, like the tax man, would surely come.

Family has Christian devotion

But it didn't stay small for long.

By 1936, five short years later, the two men owned three general stores worth $60,000.

A small commissary store in Indiantown strangely enough got Royal into the lumber business.

"The men at the mill didn't have money to pay for their grocery," so the swapped lumber," recalled Royal. "We would bring the lumber to the Glades and sell it."

The operation turned into one of the largest lumber yards in the Glades.

Larry Royal came along in 1929 and 1939 not only brought a new store on Ave. A in Belle Glade, but it brought a second son, Charles. Both men work in the family business today.

Did George Royal ever think he would one day grow from a commissary clerk to the owner of a chain of stores and motels? His wife was quick to jump in with that answer.

"I think he had it in the back of his mind all along," she beamed.

Business continued fine for the Royals, even though the rest of the country was going through a deep depression.

"Even during the depression we had a lot of payroll here," George said. And when we opened the big store in Belle Glade people used to come from all over the Glades to shop there.

"It got so crowded we had to close the doors, let the people inside do their shopping, then let them out and let others come in. We would stay open till midnight many times."

"When you're young it's fun doing those kind of things."

Both Sue and George agree on the reason they have had such a good, happy home. They begin every day with a family devotion—and have since the beginning.

They have been active in missionary work and in financing students through college, particularly those going into Christian fields of work.

The Wee Care Center in Belle Glade was another project the Royals helped get off the ground.

And out of tragedy several years ago, the first real lines of communication were set up between the black and white communities of Belle Glade.

"A black man had killed a white man and there was a great deal of turmoil in the town," said Royal. "From an economic and spiritual standpoint it would have set the town back for years."

So we called together a group of 15 whites and 15 blacks to open lines of communication. We met at the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church. And that was the beginning of the inter-racial committee in Belle Glade."

She confesses to "just" enjoying being a good grandmother. She gets a lot of practice as George's two sons have had seven children between them.

How do we win? do everything twice

Well, the Raiders did it again but they had to beat 15 players on the field at Fort Myers last Friday.

I've never seen a high school team, or any other team for that matter, who officials seem to love to come down on so hard.

At one point during the game, Ken Bowermeister was declaring in no uncertain terms the Raiders had been robbed when a running play got the Glades Central team within six inches of the Red Knight's goal line and an official calmly placed the ball a yard and a half back from paydirt.

"What," he demanded, "do we have to do to win?" "Simple," I told him. "We just gotta do everything twice."

And that's the way it looked, without taking anything away from a revenge-minded North Fort Myers team. The incredible part of it all was that the officials were so blatant about it.

Like the 15 yard penalty thrown at the Raiders when one of the officials accused Coach Jay Seider of profanity.

I was standing there and Jay wasn't even yelling at the official. He was yelling at David Jones and he wasn't cursing. The official's dilemma was easily understood though. A 15 yarder had just been called on the Raiders and that still wasn't enough to give the Knights a first down.

They would have had to punt and would have lost the ball on a drive that eventually gave up a score to the Knights.

There were a couple of other penalties assessed against the Raiders I thought were uncalled for but then that's what you get with a Glades Central game.

Only thing I can figure out is that a lot of the officials used to play ball against the old Belle Glade Rams and had their noses rubbed in the turf on such a regular basis they naturally look a little harder.

Course that's a personal opinion and I could be wrong.

But I doubt it.

You ever read a new story so ridiculous you kept waiting for the punch line...and the punch line never comes...and they don't say April Fool and even if they did you know it's November anyway?

Well, if you read the papers Friday you did.

It looks like Big Brother's Mail Gang, sometimes known as the U.S. Postal Service, is going into the final stages of brain rot.

Somebody in the planning division, or whatever they call the place where they play "you can't get there from here," has finally stripped his gears and must be foaming at the mouth.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Maybe someone can tell me why a new postal post system would send a package bound from Pensacola to Panama City by way of New Orleans, Memphis and Jacksonville, but I doubt it would make any sense.

Or somewhere, there may be a sane reason why a jiffy mail to be delivered 200 miles has to travel more than 1,700 miles but I have to look it over real good.

Course I'm just a plain old cracker and ain't never had much school housin' anyway but it sounds to me like this new system, which is gonna cost us a cool one billion dollars to build, is like going around your elbow to reach your mouth.

Just goes to show you what education can do for you though.

Here, I'd always thought the fastest way to get from one point to another was to follow a straight line but someone in Washington came up with a better idea.

Only thing I can figure is he must have taken his college in logic under a professor I heard about one time.

This dude gave us a problem once I'll never forget.

Say you're walking along a dark alley carrying home your monthly paycheck of $20 and some big cat walks up and says, "Boy, if you don't give me half of that $20, I'm gonna hit you so hard with this baseball bat you gonna hum like a 10-penny flathead!" said hit with a greasy ball-pen hammer and talk it all.

Say, whatcha gonna do now? Well, unless I happen to be carryin' a double barrel sawed off 12 gauge shotgun or some other instrument of destruction, I'm gonna fork over $10.

Grandma always said I've got a hard head but she never said I oughta prove it by going around splintering baseball bats with it.

On the other hand, reasonable as handing over the poor people's pension is, I sure don't figure I'm gaining my health and $10 like that prof said.

He argued still he was blue in the face but the only thing I see happening was that I was retaining the health and the $10 I already had and was losing $10.

Or giving away 200,000 tons of wheat and a few other assorted goodies to countries like Egypt and making noises about feeding the world when food prices are at an all-time high right here.

Not that I have anything against helping out the poor people, of the world but I figure we ought to look at a couple of other questions first.

Like, can we make a trade instead of giving away our goodies...any a ton of grain for many barrels of oil? A lot of these countries have things we want and need and they're been jacking the price out of sight.

If oil can be used as a weapon by the Arabs, maybe we ought to start looking at wheat as a weapon we can use.

Grant awarded for NDP

The City of Belle Glade received a pleasant surprise Monday when a telegram informed Mayor Aubrey Farmer the city had been awarded an additional $211,600 for the Neighborhood Development Project.
The telegram said the "amendatory fund approved for NDP first action year" was to be added to the original $446,445 grant to make a total of $658,045 in the improvement area.
City Manager William Mallery said the funds had been applied for some time back but he had been informed by the Jacksonville office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development the request would probably be turned down.

Mallery said the funds
would be used to complete areas of the project the original grant wouldn't pay for but a more detailed study would have to be made on exactly which projects.
"The money will definitely be used for streets, curbs, gutters, storm drainage and sidewalks," Mallery said.
"Some of it may be used around McDonald Park but we'll probably have to go in and set priorities."

The on-again, off-again
NDP, which was originally supposed to have had its first year's work completed between July 1, 1972 and July 1, 1973, has had numerous delays and changes.
What was originally supposed to have included returning houses in the project area, basically the Southwest section of town, has been narrowed down over the years to street work, storm drainage and sidewalks.

Raiders edge by Red Knights, 17-13

THE FLEA SAID LET US FLY. THE FLY SAID LET US FLEE. SO THEY FLEW THROUGH A FLAW IN the North Fort Myers Red Knight defense as Howard Moses clears a way for little Anthony Burger in Friday game

The Raiders defense rose to the occasion and knocked the ball down to keep the score at 17-13. The Red Knights made one more attempt to pull the game out of the fire but corner linebacker Michael Washington intercepted a Danny Kelly pass on the Raider 20 yardline to end the threat.

Dicky Sweet then hit a 46 yard punt and the Raiders had the hard fought victory 17-13.

The Back of the Week for the Raiders was Norman Smith who rushed for 86 yards in 12 carries. He was followed by Anthony Burger who had 25 yards in five carries and Johnny Rutledge who had 23 yards in eight carries.

Senior right end Hudall Collie had four receptions good for one touchdown and 42 yards. Split end Michael Pringle had two receptions good for 32 yards.

North F. Myers punt size halfback Al Kendrick rushed for 89 yards in 23 carries and fullback Preston Gary had 76 yards in 16 carries.

The Defensive Player of the Week was Michael Washington for his important interception late in the game to stop a Red Knight scoring drive. Michael had four tackles.

Other defensive players who played well were Calvin Willis with 11 tackles, David Jones with nine tackles, Jazell Simeton and Charles Small with seven tackles and Cornelius Brown and David Kinlaw with six tackles.

Bruce Rimes and Anthony Parrish and Ernest Jackson had five tackles each.

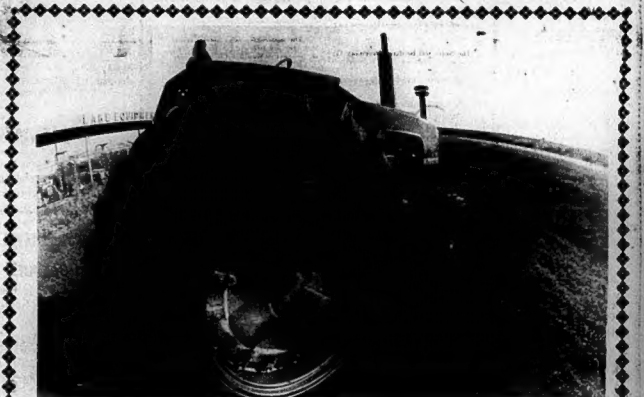

It was not one of the Super Red Raiders' better nights. The Red Knights rushed for 209 yards and had 12 first downs. The Raiders could only rush for 148 yards and had 10 first downs.

The offensive line blocked good in spots and those linemen who led the way were: Davey Locke, Allen Innes, Dick Sweet, Lester Finney, Clark Lloyd, Hudall Collie and Charles Ford.

The Raiders will have to play a better defensive game if they hope to control the powerful Eddie Jones of Martin County. The Tigers have been able to move the football but their defense has been spotty.

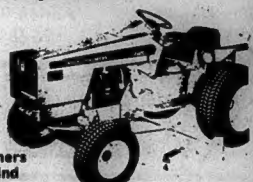

Last year the Raiders and the Tigers battled to a 0-0 tie in a defensive battle where neither team made a serious threat to score until the Raiders drove to the Tiger four yard line with two minutes left in the game and failed to make a first down by one inch on fourth down.

Neither coach expects a scoreless game this year.

Karen's Korner

By Karen Hansford

There's been a strict rule imposed on this office this week from some higher above (of whose name I won't mention except that he is known sometimes as "Fearless Leader") that we are not to talk about any college football games.

Okay, no I won't talk-but he didn't say anything about not writing about them.

Remember the old sayings about "Don't count your chickens before they're hatched" or "Putting your carts before your horses?"

I bet the college bowl officials remember them after this weekend when several bowl-bound teams lost to their rivals.

Poor Florida, who is supposedly having their best season so far (7-1 record before last Saturday and the privilege of selecting the Sugar Bowl for post-season competition), fell to the Georgia Bulldogs by one point, 17-16.

That must be a bitter pill for the team to swallow for the team and fans alike. I was hoping they could go undefeated for the rest of the season and maybe capture the Southeastern Conference title. Guess we'll have to wait at least another for the "Year of the Gator."

The Michigan State Spartans upset No. 1 ranked Ohio State in a controversial victory. Both teams thought they had won after the final play in which Ohio State wingback Brian Baschnagel picked up a fumble and plunged into the end zone for a score-or so the Buckeyes thought.

A ruling by the game officials, however, and Big Ten Conference Commissioner Wayne Duke, gave the win to Michigan State, declaring the final play had been after the final gun had sounded.

One more thrilling event happened—which really made some guys around here happy. I'm sure, after being afflicted by some of Glenn's comments in his column in the past few weeks.

Florida State University finally broke their 20-game losing streak by handily defeating the University of Miami Hurricanes 21-14 last Friday night.

All during the evening the score of the game kept flashing on the television screen—FSU leading the Hurricanes 14-0 all the way into the fourth quarter.

I couldn't believe it when the final score flashed on and it was the Seminoles' game by seven points—though I've heard the score betrays how dominant the Seminoles were over Miami.

Of course I couldn't resist giving old Glenn a call to tell him the shaggy news. I knew it must have made his night.

Now the Seminoles have to start all over again before they can try to break the all-time consecutive loss record of 11.

One more thing before I go. Can't help but gloat over Miami's victory against New Orleans, 1-0. Especially since both New England and Buffalo lost their games this weekend, which puts the Dolphins and the Bills in a tie for first place and the New England patriots one game behind.

Buffalo and Miami suit up against each other in Miami next Sunday in Dolphin territory and I predict it will be the Dolphins by at least a touchdown.

Bass contest to be held

A Lake Okechobee bass fishing contest is being held for and by fish camps, guides and other businesses connected with fishing in the Lake on Nov. 23-26 according to contest coordinator Harold E. DeTar of Moore Haven.

DeTar said the contest will cover the entire lake with camps and other businesses in Belle Glade, Okechobee, Clewiston and Moore Haven participating.

A revolving trophy will be given for the largest bass caught in the two-day contest during an awards dinner scheduled for the Glades Restaurant the evening of Nov. 28.

A trophy will also be given to the contestant with the most releases since all bass except the largest will be released when caught.

A Hard Luck trophy will be given to the contestant who is the most convincing story teller at the banquet, DeTar said. The winner will be decided after everyone has had a chance to tell their story by those attending the banquet.

Registration for the contest must be done before Nov. 10 and there will be a small entry fee which will include the price of the award dinner.

For further information, write DeTar at Box 506, Moore Haven, 33471 or call 815-946-7342.
